Keith Wilder

Keith Wilder is a dancer/choreographer, born in London, England, and raised in Atlanta, Georgia. Being the son and nephew to the lead singers from the 70s disco group, "Heatwave", he began touring with the group from a young age. With performing alongside the group, Keith learned the ins and outs of being a performer on stage. Keith began training with Atlanta based dance crew, Collision Crew, that was seen on MTV's America's Best Dance Crew. Credits in the industry that Keith Wilder has worked with, are artists that include Ginuwine, Jazze Pha, Jaquelles, and Kodak Black on The BET HipHop Awards, to name a few. In 2023, he entered the field of pro-dance and he became a choreographer for Atlanta's WNBA team, Atlanta Dream!. Keith started his own performance based dance company, WLD Atlanta Dance Collective, where dancers of various styles come together for a season to learn, strengthen and execute their performance quality in front of a camera for conceptual dance visuals. Along with his family, they started a nonprofit origination, "Positive Impact International" which gives back to their community in the form of the fine arts. The Prince of the Disco Era, Keith Wilder Jr.

Leah Boresow Groover

Leah Boresow Groover is an Atlanta based performer and choreographer. She has been dancing for over 28 years and absolutely loves teaching and sharing her passion for dance. Leah has a love for multiple different dance genres such as ballet, modern, contemporary, ballroom and Latin dance, musical theatre, and more, and owns her own dance studio, Get Up And Dance Atlanta. With a B.S in dance from Indiana University and having danced and performed nationally and internationally, Leah thrives on teaching and choreographing wherever she can including being a dance instructor for Georgia State Perimeter College, and choreographing for Gwinnett School of the Arts, Marietta Theatre Company, Onstage Atlanta, Players Guild at Sugar Hill, and the Aurora Theatre. This will be Leah's third time teaching for CDI, and she couldn't be more excited to work with everyone again!

Grace Arnold

Grace grew up in Marietta, Georgia where she attended Cobb County's Center for Excellence in the performing arts at Pebblebrook. She continued her training at The University of Alabama where she graduated with a degree with in dance and musical theatre. She has performed in regional theatres around the country. Grace has performed numerous times with City Spring Theatre and the Atlanta Lyric Theatre. She has toured internationally with A Chorus Line where she had the wonderful opportunity to play Val. Some other shows include: Guys and Dolls, Cats, Hairspray, Damn Yankees, Joseph and the...Dreamcoat and Best of Broadway. Grace has a heart for teaching the next generation and inspiring others through the arts! She currently resides in Atlanta, GA.

Monica Hogan Thysell

Monica Hogan Thysell is a choreographer, teacher, and dancer now based in Atlanta, GA following a decade working in NYC. Her classes and choreography approach contemporary movement with a unique intention and virtuosity, blending her backgrounds in ballet, modern, jazz, and theater. Monica has performed professionally with companies including Gaspard&Dancers, De Funes Dance Company, BalaSole Dance Company, Physix Urban Dance Theatre, and more. On screen, Monica has performed in music videos for artists including Delta Rae and Vienna Teng. In 2011, she was a choreographer and dancer in the opening ceremonies of the Universiade Olympic Games in Shenzhen, China. As artistic director of her company Monica Hogan Danceworks, she has presented choreography on stages internationally including: Ailey Citigroup Theatre, DUMBO Dance Festival, Gelsey Kirkland ArtsCenter, Salvatore Capezio Theater (NYC), Xuzhou Concert Hall, Tianjin Concert Hall (China), Triangle Dance Festival for AIDS (NC), and Jazz on Tap (GA), to name a few. Monica graduated with distinction in Dance Choreography and Performance from Duke University, where she was the winner of the Louis Sudler Prize in the Creative and Performing Arts.
